The Challenge:

Client required Verve's LPO arm to research and accumulate complete details about the laws pertaining to Fraudulent Joinders. This global company, with headquarters in the USA, wanted to research the rules for the Second and Ninth Circuit as pertaining to Insurance laws.

The Solution:

Verve chose to build a team from our existing pool of employees under the supervision of a team leader. All members chosen were lawyers who have had significant experience in the area of legal research. Once the team members were approved by Client, the team was divided into two tiers – Federal and State – to better research pertinent clauses under the respective laws.

Sample research papers were drafted by the team and then shared with the team leader to perform an exhaustive QA before they were forwarded to Client.

The team that was assembled for the project was well versed with US laws and court procedures. The project was therefore completed on schedule and within budget.

Having completed the project to the client's satisfaction, Client retained the team for further projects. This team, dedicated to Client, has since added new members to support our ongoing projects with Client.

Our Value Prop:

Our in-house team of legal experts have extensive experience in Legal Research and Analysis. Verve's effectiveness in adhering to Client's request to be accurate, thorough and effective in the research of laws, rules and topics on Fraudulent Joinders helped us in expanding our role from just 2 circuit courts into assignments for all 13 courts.

Client's testimonial:

"Verve has consistently fulfilled their promises of carrying out our legal research services. They have highly skilled resources and they certainly know how to meet their promised deliverables at extremely affordable rates with the stipulated time, which is a good reason why they are a pleasure to work with. Always!"
